

Catfish Don't Have Whiskers

Most people say that catfish have "whiskers." The so-called whiskers on a catfish are actually called "barbels," yet catfish use them as sensory organs, just as other animals use their whiskers.