

Flatfish and Their Eyes

Flatfish

Flatfish can have both eyes on either side of their bodies, depending on which species they happen to be. Two of the four flatfish families — tongue soles and turbot — always have both eyes on the left side. The other two — both flounders — always have both eyes on the right side.